Twenty-Six Restored In First Eight Months

In the first eight months of the calendar year 26 children have been returned happily to their own homes or to their new homes by adoption. It is a day mingled with happiness and sadness when the child who has been under the care of the Home for several years makes ready to leave the campus, but the happiness, by far, outweighs the sadness for that boy or girl is going to his own home. Two families with three children each, four families with two children, and twelve families with one child each have shared in this replacement during the months. The children range in age from those in the Baby Cottage to High School juniors.

The purpose of the Home is two-fold in receiving boys and girls: one is short term

Barium Graduates In The Colleges

Barium Springs High School will be represented by graduates in at least ten of the colleges in North Carolina this Fall. From the hills in the western part of the State to the sand and sulphur springs of the eastern half, these students will be busy pursuing their courses in the various classes in which they are enrolled. The largest number is in the freshman class - and the smallest number is in the Sophomore class, with the junior and senior classes having the same number. According to the records in the office the distribution of these students is as follows:

Summer Workers Back To A T S

The September school call got not only the boys and girls for the school on the campus but also two of our summer workers. Miss Marjorie Felder and Miss Betty Brunskill, students at the Assembly's Training School, had been doing summer work on the campus for three months and have now completed the summer session. Miss Brunskill's work was with the smaller children, serving as housemother in the cottages in the absence of the regular house mother. Miss Felder found herself busy with the intermediate age girls and the high school group. In addition to the campus work with the student body, these two assisted in the Daily Vacation Bible School for two weeks and also in the Religious Education program for the summer.

The practice of having students from the Assembly Training School for summer work has proved very helpful to the life of the campus. The total group here will be looking forward to the return of these summer workers for visits during the school year.

New Cheer Leaders Elected By School

Five of the six regular cheer leaders were in the graduating class and this required that new persons be elected to assist Betty Lou Johnson in leading the cheering section for the year '53-'54. Eleven candidates tried out before the student body in the Chapel Exercises and these candidates were: Barbara Johnson, Phoe-

Savage And Sigmon Receive Degrees

At the 163rd convocation of George Peabody College for Teachers on Monday, August 17th, President Henry H. Hill awarded degrees to over 700 members of the August graduating class. Among those receiving degrees was Joseph Austin Savage who graduated at Barium Springs in 1938, and was awarded by Peabody College the degree of Master of Arts.

Joe has been principal of the Newton Grove School for the past three years. We congratulate him on this achievement.

Marley Sigmon received his Master of Arts degree from George Peabody College August 19th. Marley teaches in the elementary school in Ruthfordton, and lives in Forest City. He graduated at Barium in the Class of 1938.

Great Service Rendered By Hospital

It was nearly midnight and the lights began to come on in the laboratory and in the doctor's office - a little girl from Barium Springs was sick and needed attention. Everybody connected with the Davis Hospital in Statesville was anxious to see that the child was taken care of immediately. The case worker had brought her in from the Home. Lab technicians did the blood count, and the nurses administered tender care. The doctor, having been aroused out of his much-needed sleep, gave careful examination, weighing the total possibilities for the good of the little one who lay an the examining table. "The count is up," he said "and the side is tender. I do not believe it will be necessary to operate tonight, but we will

Football Season Opens With Thomasville

The first test of the season for the new team will be Thomasville.

Since the sounding of the call for candidates on August 17th the coaches have been busy working the squad into shape and trying to round out a fighting unit for the heavy schedule that lies before the team.

Graduation, as usual, took a heavy toll of experienced men who will be sorely missed during the campaign. In the line there are three men of experience, two ends and the center. Tackles and guards will have to be recruited. There are some good prospects for these positions with some of the boys making the face of the scales smile when they step on them for weight. However, the inexperience of these heavy men means that it will take a year's seasoning to get them really shaped up for their best play. The backfield lost two regulars and retained two. The candidates are of average weight with no heavies around for line plunging. Coach R. G. Calhoun said, "We are working hard to fill the places of guards and tackles in the line and we expect to have an average line for the team this year. In the backfield no weight but some speed and a great deal of determination. Barring a heavy toll of injuries, the squad will render a satisfactory account of itself in the season of '53."

Attention is called to the fact that in the schedule all home games played on Sloan Field will be afternoon contests. The field has no lighting and then, too, the afternoon games are far more satisfactory from the standpoint of the small children. The games played at home are for the members of the Home more than for a revenue producing contest.

Cottage News

Annie Louise

Here we are again bringing our thoughts and sayings to you.

We are all happy and working hard in school so we will bring home all good report cards. We are trying hard to concentrate on each subject as much as possible.

We are all looking forward for winter to come so we can really go to work because in this hot weather it is hard to do our work good.

We are really thankful to Mr. Trotter at Statesville for letting us go to the movie as a treat or a gift from him. We also went to another movie. We always like to go to a movie and enjoy it very much.

We are also grateful for the over-flowing kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Barnhardt.

We are refreshed as well as the trees are on the campus because we have had plenty of rain.

The apples are very good this year. We all looked forward to them in the afternoons and all this winter.

We were glad to see one of our old big girls. She is on her way to Texas to stay awhile. We would like to see one of our old big girls who has a new little baby girl. We are all wondering what she looks like.

Since we are so busy at school we will not have much time for Television. We are wondering if Santa Claus gives away Television sets at Christmas time. If he does we want to put our bids in among the first.

We are all looking forward to the Fair and the rides.

See you all next month with our hopes high.

Rumple Hall

It has been a long time since you have heard from us, quiet a few things have happened to us since you last heard from us. First we have two new girls, they are Grace Faulk, 7th grade; and Martha Hill, 8th grade.

We were invited to the show at the Playhouse in Statesville by Mr. Trotter.

Miss Carpenter gave us and the Jennie Gilmer boys a party. We went to the Gymnasium and played games and then went to the Snack Bar and had refreshments, we had a popsicle and a stick of candy. We really had a good time.

School has started and we are in for a good year. We are all going to study real hard and try to make the honor roll or at least come somewhere close to it.

One of our girls, Gay Church, had her appendix removed at Davis Hospital. She is in the Infirmary now and we hope she will soon be well.

watch this child until morning to see what she needs." Early the next morning the phone rang and it was the doctor himself giving reports and asking consent for an operation for the removal of the appendix. And so to the operating room and through several days of expert care this little one moved and now has rejoined the group. She has joined her brothers and sisters and others of the Home and starts forth on her life at Barium Springs. She has been here only six weeks.

It is impossible to evaluate the services rendered to the Barium children by Dr. James W. Davis and the members of his staff and his hospital. That which has been described in the foregoing paragraph could be duplicated hundreds and hundreds of times wherein the time and talent of the professionally trained men and the well-organized institution has met the needs of a child with skill and tenderness. In the present student body and among the alumni scattered abroad the name of Davis Hospital stands treasured in their hearts for the Christian service rendered to them while they were at Barium.

care for those who will remain in the Home for a few years and then be returned to their parents or relatives, and the other is the long term care where it is wise and good for the child to continue in the Home until he has had the opportunity to finish High School. The Home cherishes every child who enters its door. It also rejoices with every child who goes out of the door whether to his own home, a new home by adoption, or after graduation to establish a home of his own.

THE NATION'S TEEN-AGERS

From Youth — A Report Prepared by The Interdepartmental Committee on Children and Youth of the Federal Government.

Who are the Nation's teen-agers? And why should we concern ourselves with them?

They are the boys and girls 14 through 19 years of age. There were nearly 13 million of them in 1950. By 1960, when the babies born during World War II reach their teens, there will be close to 17 million. Among the boys and girls who are the teen-agers of today are the voters, homemakers, scientists, writers, teachers, farmers, shop workers, businessmen, community leaders, and statesmen of tomorrow. Among them also are the future irresponsibles, misfits, drifters, racketeers, and criminals.

What these boys and girls of today will become, what they will do, what part they will play in our democratic society, depends to a great extent on this period between childhood and aduthood. Never again will their capacity for growth and change be so great. In school, at play, in the home, at church, on the job, they are always learning.

The Pattern of the individual's development during the critical years of adolescence grows out of his earlier life in home and school. The qualities needed for responsible citizenship must be forming long before the child reaches teen-age. But in the total building process of the individual, the later years of adolescence are highly important. Neglect here may set a pattern for future failure, frustration, and maladjustment which will be costly to the individual and to society.

At some time during their teens, most boys and girls begin their first jobs in the adult world. This is one of the pivotal points in their experience. Few satisfactions in life exceed the solid sense of "making good" on the job. Failure to find and keep satisfying work is a disappointment that cuts deep. The value to an adolescent of deriving personal satisfaction from his work and his relation to it is an important part of growing up.

In this same period, many boys and girls bring to a close the formal education that they will carry with them as equipment for working and living. The adequacy of this basic equipment rests in part with the individual, his parents, his teachers, and in part—a very large part—with society.

Nothing that we, as a democratic society, can do holds more hope for the future than the thought, the time, the money we spend on improving the preparation of our young people during these critical years for sane and useful living. In view of current developments which may well involve a period of military service for most boys, this preparation takes on an added importance. If we are to win through to a world of free men living together in assured peace and growing prosperity, we must do all we can to give our boys and girls a reliable scale of values, a sense of personal responsibility, and all the technical and scientific knowledge, all the creative skills, and all the human understanding and serenity of spirit, that they can acquire.

To this end, we must as a Nation and as individuals:

1. Help boys and girls stay in school until they are mature, trained, and responsible enough to contribute to their maximum capacity in the working world and in a democratic society. They will want to stay in school if it makes sense to them and gives them real-life experiences.

2. Help young people continue their education—in high school, college, or special schools—in order that they may develop their powers most fully. No one should be barred by lack of funds from the education he wants and is fitted for.

3. Help boys and girls who are out of school or who feel that they must leave school to find suitable jobs. At this point they need and should have the help of competent counseling and placement services.

4. Insure good working conditions for employed young people and supervision on the job that cultivates good work habits, adaptability, and respect for themselves and others.

5. Wherever, and whenever, jobs for young people are scarce, be ready with alternative plans for special training and work projects, drawing on public resources. These projects should not be merely expedients. They should add to the growth and development of the trainee, and contribute constructively to his role in society. A part of the challenge and satisfaction to the worker comes from a realization of the importance and worthwhileness of the job he is doing.

6. Pay particular attention to developing and carrying out wise policies for education and employment of youth in the present period of national crisis and responsibility, when it is imperative to use and develop all the Nation's human resources in the best possible way.

Barium Graduates

Macdonald College, N. C. State, W. C. U. N. C., Catawba College, Appalachian, Montreat College, Gardner-Webb College, Pfeiffer, and U. N. C.

Many of the boys in the last three years' graduating classes have entered the armed forces to do their hitch of service and will continue their education after that is over. About eighteen are in the service now. Many of the girls have entered the field of nurses' training, or are training as X-ray Technicians, while others have entered the field of matrimony and have established their own homes.

The students of the Home who go to college are enabled to do so by the interest of special friends, scholarships awarded by the schools, self-help programs within the college where the students work, and the help of the Morris-Ellis Educational Fund and the Morton Fund established at Barium Springs.

These funds are invested and the earnings from them are made available to the boys and girls who areseeking to complete a college course. This fund provides only a part of the necessary fees and is not sufficient to meet the requests of the students this year.
